

Abstract

A block of user data is formatted by arranging the user data block into a byte array having plural rows and plural of columns of bytes. An error correction code is applied to individual ones of the rows of bytes, such that each row has four code words.